Clark Makes Second Visit To Stroudsburgs

By Leonard Randolph

JOE CLARK came back to Stroudsburg Saturday and with that striking gift of the man who remembers small details about a person or a place, he managed to make it seem like a family reunion. It was here—in mid-February—that Clark officially "kicked off" his current drive for the U. S. Senate seat now held by James Duff. At that time he arrived late at night, checked in at the Penn-Stroud Hotel and spent the night here, resting and collecting data from local Democratic party leaders. The next day he had traveled through the county.

Saturday at noon he came back to talk with a small group of party leaders. It was not exactly the kind of audience Joe Clark had told local politicians he wanted.

He had wanted to talk to a rally of some kind, an outdoor meeting, maybe, to which everyone would have been invited—Democrat and Republican alike. But local leaders said there hadn't been enough time to set something like that up.

The "free and open rally" is an essential part of the makeup of Joe Clark. In Philadelphia, when he began his relentless, block-by-block campaign to rout the Republicans from City Hall, the skeptics sat back and grunted. It was, they said, a "throwaway" campaign. And they chuckled at their own esoteric joke, knowing they meant that Joe Clark was going to throw away his energy and his chances because nobody—absolutely nobody—could get in City Hall unless he was a member in good standing of the Grand Old Party.

Clark had some good, sensible organizations behind him. They had been preaching it was "time for a change" in the City of Brotherly Love for a good many years. Now they thought they might—just might—have the man who could do it.

Joe Clark carried on his campaign in the best way he knew—he stopped on street corners, walked into stores, shook hands with an almost endless cluster of people ranging from fashionable shoppers in downtown stores to disinterested housewives in backyards. There were sound trucks and loud speakers and paid ads, too. But the real force of the campaign was still the voice of Joe Clark.

In Stroudsburg the accurate planning which went into that noontime lunch could have deprived Clark of the thing he wanted most—the chance to get out and simply talk with people on the street. As it

Weinberger Baby Buried

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—Little Peter Weinberger was buried today, two months and five days after he was kidnapped from the rear patio of his parents' home.

The service was quiet and private, with none of the publicity that has dogged the family since the month-old infant was taken last July 4. Peter was found dead Aug. 24 in woods near the Plainview, N. Y., exit ramp of a well-traveled parkway, six miles from Westbury.

Angelo John LaMarca, 31-year-old cabbie, of Plainview, has been indicted for kidnapping and murder, both punishable by death.

Urges Action By Engineers

By Leonard Randolph

JOSEPH S. Clark, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, told a Stroudsburg audience Saturday afternoon that development of water resources in the Delaware River Basin would add millions of dollars of income to the Northeastern section as a resort-travel area and would help put Monroe and surrounding counties over the threshold into a great new period of prosperity and growth.

Clark said, if elected senator, he would do everything possible to secure quick Congressional action on the Delaware Basin when Army Engineers complete their "all purpose" study of the river.

As Mayor of Philadelphia Clark was the leading figure in establishment of the Delaware River Basin Survey committee. It is made up of members from Pennsylvania (Clark is now one of them), New Jersey, New York and Delaware and the mayors of New York and Philadelphia.

Statement
"As United States Senator from Pennsylvania, I would work hard to help draft practical plans for stream flow regulation, flood control, recreational and wild life facilities, water pollution control and power resource development of the Delaware River basin area," Clark said. "There are few things more important than preventing another disastrous flood such as that one which occurred here in August, 1955."

These comments were made before a luncheon conference of Democratic leaders from Monroe county. Later in the afternoon, Clark took a "get acquainted" tour through Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

At the luncheon Clark hit out at Republican "domination" of the areas around the Delaware basin during recent years. He said the river had not been developed properly because the GOP has "controlled those areas" until Republicans were ousted by Democratic governors in Pennsylvania (Leahy), New Jersey (Meyner), New York (Harriman) and New York City moved forward under the leadership of Mayor Robert Wagner.

British Release New 'Wanted' List

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Sept. 9 (AP)—The British issued today a revised list of 35 "wanted" men of EOA, the Greek Cypriot underground. They put prizes of up to $25,000 on their heads, and offered free transportation to any place in the world for Cypriots willing to turn in any of the rebels.

The new list, as previous ones, is headed by George Grivas, 59, former Greek army colonel who is the reputed chieftain of Greek Cypriot rebels.

State Attorney Issues Appeal For Information Dealing With Kidnapping Of Ruotolo Infant

HAMDEN, Conn., Sept. 9 (AP)—An appeal for information from people who are reported to have been at the Sears Roebuck department store where six-week-old Cynthia Ruotolo was reported kidnapped Sept. 1 was made today by State's Attorney Abraham S. Ullman.

Hearing Set For Overpass

INTENSE INTEREST in a Public Utility Commission hearing dealing with replacement of the railroad bridge overpass of Route 90, near Pinebrook Camp, is expected to bring out a record attendance at the Court House at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Some 800 people in Stroud Township and vicinity signed a petition calling for the PUC to approve reconstruction of the bridge, ripped apart by the flood of August 1955, at its old location.

Their action stemmed from a proposal to move the bridge crossing south some distance, nearer East Stroudsburg.

The public is invited to the hearing.

ADLAI Stevenson accused Republicans yesterday of "misconduct and corruption" at the state levels and said this applies to the Eisenhower administration.

The Democratic presidential nominee loosed this attack on the GOP in a speech prepared for a party rally at Palisades Park, N. Y.

President Eisenhower, who will launch his own campaign Wednesday at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, made a flying roundtrip from Washington to the Pennsylvania State University campus yesterday.

Pennsylvania
A Presbyterian, he received communion at private Episcopal services dedicating a new campus chapel named for the late wife of his youngest brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, the school's president.

Stevenson, in his New Jersey speech, spoke of what he termed GOP "misconduct and corruption" in that state and in Pennsylvania and Illinois.

three inches in height and 130 pounds in weight. He also asked that five or six teenage boys come forward. They were thought to have been standing near the coke machine in the north foyer, near where the baby was taken from her carriage.

Earlier today Hamden police chief Harry H. Barrows said it was a false rumor that a swarthy, compact woman had come to police headquarters yesterday and was cleared of involvement in the case.

Tanks Take Position At Sturgis School

By The Associated Press

FOUR TANKS rumbled into position on the grounds of Sturgis High School in western Kentucky Sunday to prevent further mob demonstrations while two out-of-state segregationists returned to the troubled Clinton, Tenn., area with plans to hold a mass meeting.

The tanks and about 600 Kentucky National Guardsmen were preparing for resumption of classes at Sturgis today.

At least 35 state police officers were expected to be on hand to help.

Adj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams termed the situation "tense" and said today may be the turning point in a series of protest actions against admittance of seven Negro youths to the high school.

Trouble also was expected at Clay, a small mining community 11 miles southeast of Sturgis. Two school Negro children were turned away there Friday and angry citizens told newsmen they would resist any attempt to bring integration to their school.

Blame

John Kasper and Asa Carter, segregationists blamed for sparking recent anti-integration disorders in east Tennessee, returned to Clinton and sought unsuccessfully for permission to stage a tent meeting just outside town. Then they moved to nearby Oliver Springs to see if they could arrange a meeting there.

Kasper, executive secretary of the Seaboard White Citizens Council, Washington, D. C., is free under $10,000 bond pending appeal of his one year sentence for contempt of federal court. He was sentenced for addressing an anti-integration rally at Clinton after a restraining order was issued against him.

Carter, head of the North Alabama White Citizens Council of Birmingham, was the speaker who took over harranguing crowds in Clinton after Kasper was arrested in the contempt case.

The two men returned to the Clinton area about the same time the Tennessee National Guard announced it had returned all law enforcement to Clinton authorities and cut its detachment to 30 men. A total of 633 guardsmen, 19 tanks and a helicopter were sent to Clinton a week ago after integration of the high school touched off mob violence.

At White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee who ordered the troops into Clinton said Sunday he was chiefly concerned over "keeping outside agitators from stirring the people up" on the school integration problem.

Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama, also at White Sulphur Springs for the governors conference, said that no matter what happens elsewhere "it's going to take a long, long time" for school integration to come to Alabama.

Commissioner In Fair Condition

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9 (AP)—Pennsylvania Turnpike Commissioner David E. Watson was reported in fair condition at Einstein Medical Center today, following an operation for a brain tumor.

The operation was performed Friday.

In these, Nasser told the commission that nations missing troops, making what he termed threats and bringing economic pressure against Egypt are the only danger to free navigation through the canal. He showed no retreat from Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal Co.

He said again that Egypt would maintain free passage through the canal without discrimination. He declared any attempt to impose "collective domination" on the canal would bring "incalculable strife." The canal must remain entirely Egyptian, he repeated.

That was Nasser's reply to a final statement from Menzies urging the advantages to Egypt of internationalizing the canal.

Tonight also marks the opening of the Robert Montgomery fall season at 9:30 on Ch. 3 and 4, when he will present James Cagney in "Soldier from the Wars Returning," his first live dramatic TV role.

Studio One Summer Theater will present at 10 p.m. on Ch. 2 and 10 "The Cauliflower Heart," the story of a man who bitter over the death of his only son, resents the appearance of another boy in his home but finds that the young orphan holds the key to his problems.

Sciota Accident Proves Fatal To Nanticoke Woman

MONROE COUNTY chalked up another highway fatality for 1956 when Mrs. Christine Omolecki, 34, of Nanticoke, died at 10:35 Saturday night at General Hospital.

Mrs. Omolecki suffered head, shoulder, chest and back injuries when the family car overturned after running off Route 209 a half mile west of Sciota last Thursday.

Stroudsburg State Police said Omolecki swerved his late model car to avoid slamming into the rear of a tractor-trailer which had crashed into a utility pole a few minutes before.

In doing so, the car spun out of control on the slippery highway and overturned, troopers said.

The truck driver, Anthony Esposito, 47, of Brooklyn, N.Y., received possible head, shoulder and back injuries when his trailer truck crashed into the pole, State Police said.

The body of Mrs. Omolecki was removed from General Hospital by a Nanticoke funeral director, hospital officials said.

Series Of Crises Brings Home Lesson

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Foreign News Analyst

A PROCESSION of crises, culminating in the current Suez Canal imbroglio, points up a sharp lesson to the United States and illuminates the breaking dawn of a new day of diplomacy. It's basic theme might well be described by the injunction: be yourself.

Britain has long enjoyed a reputation as the producer of the world's greatest diplomats. The reverence paid British diplomacy by the chancelleries of other nations was almost mystical. With an empire at its command, Britain could make and break kings and stud the British crown with glittering imperial gems. But since the end of World War II, British diplomacy has suffered a decline commensurate with the melting away of Britain's empire.

In respectful imitation of the British, Americans put top hats and striped pants on their ambassadors and bowler hats on their undersecretaries. In British fashion, U.S. diplomats donned tuxedos and graced their way through the polite mazes of double talk. The United States, a new and vigorous nation of blunt speakers given to calling a spade a spade, was hardly suited to this way of diplomatic life.

Russians

Since the end of the war, the Russians, of all people, have served as catalysts in the formation of a new brand of diplomacy. In a sense, they blazed a new trail.

The Russians, having little respect for niceties, blasted their way into the polite, double-talking circle with stubborn disregard for the amenities. They donned their bell-bottom pants, slouch hats and pre-knotted bow ties and went about the chancelleries acting like Russians. The career diplomats were shocked, but the Russians rolled up one diplomatic success after another. In short, they were being themselves.

Noisy and beaming, Comrade Khrushchev lurches his way through a series of diplomatic journeys which paid Moscow big dividends in spreading word of Russia's devotion to "peaceful co-existence." Leaders of backward nations blinked with puzzlement and accepted Soviet offers of arms and technical aid. Khrushchev was a new and modern Israeli in sloppy clothing.

There is no need, of course, for Americans to copy the Russians. But they can learn a lesson from them. The voice of the United States might carry a great deal more weight on the international stage if the representatives of Americans would act like Americans—speak clearly and distinctly and say what they mean and with a great deal less regard for the delicate phrase and the hidden meaning.

Americans as a people have always wanted to know what was going on about them. Perhaps the time is coming soon when American diplomats will look at a spade and call it exactly what it is.

Damage

Damage was estimated by the State Police at some $250.

Miss Donaldson Compares Norway To Life In States

(Miss Helen Donaldson, of Timber Hill Farm, Cresco, and Pembroke College of Brown University, is spending the summer in Norway as a member of the student group Experiment in International Living. She continues an account of her adventures.)

Oslo, Norway — We got up very early and took an all day train for Oslo—back through the mountains for a farewell glimpse. The route is supposed to be spectacularly beautiful and it was—in spite of the rain, fog and the smoke wafted back from the engine.

There's something I should like to add especially for The Record. Perhaps there might be some interest around Stroudsburg in the Experiment, perhaps in sending a community ambassador some time. We have three in our group. I've been talking to them and have found out just how they are sponsored. In some towns there is a special committee, in some it is handled by the chamber of commerce. In the case of a special committee the members usually represent various interested organizations. The ambassadors' expenses are covered by money contributed in varying amounts from all interested organizations, such as the chamber of commerce, the Girl Scouts, the newspaper, the various PTA's, the Rotary, the Kiwanis, the Masons, the American Legion, the radio stations, the churches, and so on, as well as occasionally some private donations. In return for this trip to Europe, the ambassador usually writes articles for the newspaper during it and for the next year is obligated to speak wherever and whenever she is asked to about her experiences, sharing with her community at home all that she has learned. The girls—or boys—interested in going as community ambassadors apply to the committee who then select the person they think best qualified. Community ambassadors get special briefing from the Experiment, as well as often getting special tours of organizations and offices, such as a newspaper office, in the city where they are staying. It's really a wonderful thing for a community to do for not only does the trip the ambassador takes bring her, her family, friends, and the townspeople closer to world understanding, but it also brings the whole community a little closer together. If there is any interest in this in Stroudsburg and other towns near by—and I'm sure there would be—all anyone has to do is to write to The Experiment in International Living in Putney, Vermont, and he will receive all the information on this program. And of course if the community should have an ambassador and there proved to be sufficient interest in the area, there is no reason why Stroudsburg could not have an Experiment group of its own of Europeans who come to the States just as my group of Americans has come to Oslo.

I've said before that life in Norway is basically so much like life in the States that it is the differences that one must look for. I am keeping a list because it is interesting, but they are mostly such little things! Here are some special ones, however: the knickers—pants worn by the men which come slightly below the knee with what looks like an elasticized bottom and which when worn with high socks are very good looking but otherwise rather odd (this is not so common in Oslo, especially in the summer); the long winter underwear, vaguely flesh-colored, which is worn by absolutely every woman in the winter instead of stockings or socks, and which here is a vital necessity; the people are generally neater, I think—though this is one of those dangerous generalizations—certainly my family is; then there are their methods of address which include the husband's occupation—you

Wedding Of Local Interest

Miss Anita Benrube, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Benrube of Bronx, N. Y., became the bride of John Carras, son of Mrs. B. Carras and the late Nicholas Carras of Bronx, N. Y. on August 26, 1956.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a baby blue ballerina-length gown of chantilly lace and a satin sash. It was fashioned with a scoop neckline and bouffant skirt. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Pearl Goodman was maid of honor for her sister, while Gabriel Carras served as best man for his brother.

After a reception at the Tavern on the Green at Central Park West, New York City, the couple flew to Quebec, Canada for their honeymoon.

They will make their home in their newly furnished apartment at 107 Elliot Place, Bronx, N. Y.

The bride is a registered nurse and the bridegroom is an architect in New York City.

Mr. Carras is the brother of Mrs. James Allam of Stroudsburg.

WSCS On Wednesday

Mount Pocono—The Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Mount Pocono Methodist Church will hold their next meeting Wednesday evening Sept. 12, at 8, in the church. The president, Mrs. Etabelle Horgan, announces this meeting as very important, because of the new projects to be introduced.

say Herr overrettsakfører Rolf M. (meaning lawyer, and which may be abbreviated to o. r. sakfører)—you never say Fru Rolf M., but Fru Borgild M. or Fru o. r. sakfører M. In recent years they have begun to drop the Herr and use only the profession. And my last difference is that Norwegians are more polite than Americans. They have many every day gracious expressions for which we have no equivalent—such as "var so god," which means "be so kind" and which they say every time they hand anyone anything, including change in stores and tickets on the bus. And there is one expression I love—"takkk for idag," which means "thanks for today" and which they say to someone with whom they have spent some time that day. Also, when they meet a friend they say, "takkk for sist," which means "thanks for the last time" (we were together).

Mr. Bey smiled again, and nodded. His eyes, I noticed, were even larger and darker than they had seemed when I was quite a bit younger and he was one of my favorite movie heroes... and even in casual rain attire there was something of the dashing cavalier about him. His bearing was quite as striking as it had been onstage in the role of an army officer, I noted... and the hands fingering the fountain pens were handsomely cared for, with immaculate square-shaped nails.

Turning his attention to Ruth Widmer and her display of pens, Mr. Bey began taking them apart, studying the way they were made, the way they functioned, and the materials used. He is not a haphazard shopper, that was obvious. When an article struck him as being unusually priced, he said so. "Some of the manufacturers are ridiculous," he commented emphatically. Methodically he pointed out to his companion the features of each pen which he considered particularly good or bad.

In the end it was a Waterman that he approved, partially because of the cartridges that make it so easy to carry ink when traveling, and eliminate all the danger of breakage and spillage.

Mr. Bey was in a rush to get away because of his evening engagement at the Playhouse and the business of dinner before, but he obviously liked our store, and agreed to be interviewed "when I come back tomorrow, which I very possibly will." In the meantime, we wished him well and welcomed him happily to the long list of celebrities whom Wyckoff's has served. After the final performance here, "The Spa" company disbanded and will be briefly at liberty. But maybe the same pleasant group will be back another year. We hope so.

Wallpaper Is Popular Again
WALLPAPER is once again gaining in popularity, according to Curt Muller, owner of the Paint Service Center, 517 Main St.
The reasons for this increasing popularity is not hard to come by. Mr. Muller noted: Machine-print manufacturers have made available a whole new line of smart new wall papers that offer the finest quality at prices to fit the most modest purse.
To meet the greatest possible range of individual taste, the new papers present designs to suit both traditional and contemporary backgrounds; a full scope of new colors from palest pastels to the strong clear, vibrant hues, and for good measure, top-notch techniques not only in design but in the function and application of the product.
Trends in color are definitely in the direction of the clean, light colors and tones, the blues and the clearest greens. Mr. Muller pointed out. In the monochromes, there's a new trend to the cleanest of grays and away from the beiges and browns of seasons past.
Paint Service Center also has notable additions in the scrubable, plastic impregnated and plastic coated presentations as well as the pre-trimmed and pre-pasted varieties that aid in easy hanging.
Right now Paint Service Center is holding its annual wallpaper sale. You can buy room-lot sizes from as low as $1.00.
The Center also supplied all the Sherwin-Williams paint, varnish and Asam Wallpaper used in the "Ashland", first model home opened in the new Chipmunk Heights suburban housing development.
The Ashland was designed and

Necchi-Elna Sewing Machine Saves Money On School Togs
SAVE MONEY on the children's back-to-school togs by making them yourself with one of the new, automatic Pushbutton Necchi sewing machines.
Sewing your own clothes is not only more economical; it also permits you to have the exact color and style you want, in your own size. And with a little ingenuity, you can have expensive-looking "originals."
The new Necchi-Elna pushbutton machines are fully automatic, and make sewing a pleasure instead of a duty, even for the novice.
Ernest Michelfelder, manager of A. B. Wyckoff's Necchi-Elna Sewing Center suggests that you drop in at your earliest convenience for a "magic minute" demonstration of this wonderful new machine.
An important item to be considered by the future customer, says Mr. Michelfelder, is the fact that Necchi-Elna sewing centers—more than 2,400 of them—are now located in 1,000 cities throughout the country. These machines are the only ones to have been awarded the United States testing seal of approval for service, availability of parts, quality and performance.
Necchi-Elna machines carry a lifetime guarantee. Mr. Michelfelder points out. Before you decide on purchasing any sewing machine, stop in at Wyckoff's Sewing Center and inspect the Necchi. Necchi-Elna prices start at $79.95.
Mr. Michelfelder will gladly show you the wide variety of machines available, and to demonstrate them for you.
If you are interested in a sewing machine, but find it difficult to get to the center, call Mr. Michelfelder (Stbg. 400) for a home demonstration.

THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

FOOTBALL AND hands go together this Friday night at Gordon Giffels Field, Stroudsburg, the drums and instruments will be flying in no uncertain terms when Bucknell University's Marching Band puts on one of its famed exhibitions.

The Bison musical unit is considered one of the top units in the United States, having performed at many outstanding events aside its regular schedule with the Lewisburg institution.

For the past two weeks the Bucknell organization has been getting steady for the fall campaign via a pre-school band camp at Hemlock Lodge, South Sterling.

Under the direction of Allen W. Flock, assistant professor of music education at Bucknell, the some odd 80-piece group has been going through musical training paces from 7:30 a.m. through 10 p.m. daily.

Flock, one of the leading bandmasters of the state, having served as president of the Pennsylvania Bandmasters Collegiate Association at one time. In 1955 he was guest conductor of the Keystone Eastern All-State Band at Harrisburg.

Flock, originator of the band camp, met the problem of only two hours rehearsal a week and early football games in prior years by concocting the training base idea. His supervision at camp involves around the fundamentals that includes all phases of successful marching and concert ensemble in such a way to supplement the personal growth of all its members.

John Pyle, instrumental music director at Stroudsburg High School, is the man who invited the Bison marchers to show off their scars on Giffels' greenward.

Pyle, through wide friendships in the band world also extended a bid to Flock and his crew to give forth with music at Friday afternoon's pep rally at the high school. Both invitations were accepted by the Bucknell authorities.

The Bucknell Band will stay at the Penn Stroud and American Hotels Friday night as guests of the Stroudsburg High Varsity "S" Association during their stay in the local borough.

It will be easily to recognize a member of the Bucknell musical unit. Their dress is similar to the clothing worn by Buffalo Bill, right down to the kerchief. The only difference to the old west days and today is the shoes, with white buckskin adorning the feet of the modern Bisons.

For football fans and lovers of good music, a treat is in store for them Friday night when Flock and his flock start filling the air with music.

Stroudsburg High is quite fortunate to have such a musical kickoff to their 1956 grid campaign. The memories will be something to behold for a spell.

Quick Pickups — Racing fans will get a extra if they take in the United Nations Handicap at Atlantic City Saturday, when Princess Grace (Kelly) of Monaco presents the UN trophy to the winner of the $100,000 race.

Princess Grace, daughter of John B. Kelly, president of the Atlantic City track, arrives this week in the United States with her husband, Prince of Monaco.

For those who missed the scores of Friday and Saturday's football games involving area teams we will give out with them here.

Allentown High beat Pottsville 20-13; Reading whipped Easton 24-13; Salating Blanketed Coplay 19-0; Whitehall topped Lebanon Catholic 18-6, and Coaldale rapped Blithe Twp. 50-0.

Radler And Labrosky Twirl Strouds, Lake Harmony To Wins In PML Runoff Openers

FRANK Radler and Pete Labrosky scintillated on the mound yesterday as the Strouds and Lake Harmony drew first blood in opening games of the semi-final playoffs of the Pocono Mountain League.

Radler stopped Saylorsburg on six hits as his mates gained a 3-1 victory at Gordon Giffels Field and Labrosky one-hit Budhkill as Lake Harmony ran up a 11-1 decision at Lake Harmony.

Rookie Hurls Brooklyn To 6-1 Triumph

BROOKLYN, Sept. 9 (AP)—Young Don Drysdale turned in his best mound effort of the season and Carl Furillo drove in four runs with a home run and single as the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the New York Giants 6-1 today in their final meeting of the season to stay on the heels of the front-running Milwaukee Braves.

Drysdale, who has not yet reached his 21st birthday, shackled the Giants with three hits as the Dodgers came from behind a 1-0 deficit to win.

Yanks Magic Number At 9 Via 2-1 Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Billy Hunter's seventh-inning triple with two mates aboard snapped a scoreless pitching duel between New York's Whitey Ford and Washington's Chuck Stobbs and gave the Yankees a 2-1 victory over the Senators today.

The Yankee victory reduced the magic number of nine. Any combination of Yankee victories and defeats by Cleveland and Chicago adding up to that number will clinch the flag for the Yankees.

Ford struck out 11 and permitted six hits as he gained his 17th victory. Stobbs was a luckless loser, allowing only four hits in eight innings.

Braves Boost League Lead To Full Game

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves boosted their National League lead to a full game today by whipping the Chicago Cubs, 7-4 and 5-3, before a crowd of 35,309—largest of the season at Wrigley Field.

The double triumph snapped a five-game losing streak and put the Braves a full game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers who beat the New York Giants, 6-1, in a single game.

Cleveland, Chisox Split; Feller Cited

CLEVELAND, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox split a doubleheader today to remain in a second-place tie. The Indians won the opener 4-1 on Herb Score's five-hitter, and Gerry Staley beat the Indians for the fourth time this season in the second game 6-2.

The second-game victory gave White Sox a 15-7 record against the Indians this season.

A crowd of 28,457 turned out for the doubleheader and between-game ceremonies honoring Cleveland pitcher Bob Feller, celebrating his 20th year with the club.

New Start Time For Fair Races

READING—A new starting time for one of the four afternoon sessions of the Grand Circuit race meeting at the Reading Fair, Sept. 11 to 14, has been set to give race fans an opportunity to see a host of the Hambletonian starters in action.

The sultry races on Wednesday, Sept. 12, will begin at 4 p. m. instead of the 1:30 p. m. gate time for the other three days.

Tucker's Wins Monroe Softball Loop Crown

TUCKER'S Chevrolet came from behind in both games and went on to post a twin victory over Nebel's Market and gain the 1956 championship of the Monroe County Softball League Saturday. The final scores were 5-4 and 7-3. The games were played at Stroudsburg playground field.

Four In 5th
In the 5-4 win, Tucker's overcame a 4-1 deficit by scoring four runs in the seventh inning as Jack Newell dumped a hit between three Nebel players, scoring one run while Newell and another run-

Russ Staples and Charley Litts were the big guns in the Strouds five-hit attack on Saylorsburg ace Bob Bonser, who lost his third close decision to the Radlermen this season. Staples hammered out a two-run double in the fifth inning to give the locals a lead they never relinquished and Litts put the Strouds in front briefly in the first inning with a solo homer.

Saylorsburg knotted the score in the second frame 1-1 on the first of two singles by Jack Newell.

Radler struck out eight, while Bonser fanned five during the old-fashion hurling duel. Radler didn't walk a man and only two got free tickets to first off Bonser.

Only Hit
Geets DiTorrice got the only hit off Labrosky when he homered in the first inning to give Budhkill a short-lived 1-0 edge.

The Lake Harmony hurler then retired the next 16 visitors in succession before Gene Plaza got on via a walk. Two more walks off Labrosky in the ninth frame were the only other Budhkill runners to get aboard.

Dietz paced the Lake Harmony offense, getting three-for-five, including a double. Snyder struck the big blow for the winners, a homer in the sixth with one aboard.

Meet Again Sunday
Next Sunday the Strouds, who won the regular season crown, will travel to Saylorsburg in the second tilt of the best-of-three semi-finals. Budhkill will host Lake Harmony, second place finishers in the regular campaign, also next Sunday.

JOLLEY'S AUTO EXCHANGE</

Joe Clark Impresses As Regular Joe

turned out, it didn't at all. When the luncheon was over he took a trip to East Stroudsburg.

One of his guides on that trip estimated that Joe Clark shook hands and talked to a couple of hundred people during the short time he was there. The guide said it was a good, productive tour and he thought Clark made a fine impression with the people he met.

Shakes Hands

Then it was back to Stroudsburg again. And here, in this borough, he shook another hundred or more hands.

It is curious, at times, to watch a man running for an elective office because, if you see him more than a couple of times, you realize he is not just one man, he is really two or three or maybe more. This is also true of Joe Clark.

At the luncheon he talked with political leaders rapidly and candidly. Much of his travel during the past seven months had made him feel he had a "good chance" in the race with Duff. But he was still running scared and he wanted no part of over-confidence. You don't win elections that way. And Joe Clark is a man who has never been more serious about anything than he is today about the campaign in which he is a central force.

Since February he told the group he had been in 63 of the 67 counties in the State. That was the first lap on a campaign grind that will go on right up to the night before election. In the next 53 days, he said, he intends to visit every one of those 67 counties. It was the old (but somehow oddly new) tradition of street corner campaigning, stopping at the houses, talking with ordinary people about the way things were going.

Out on the street, shaking hands and talking, Clark was essentially the same man. Yet there was a new and more vibrant kick in the things he said, a spontaneous enjoyment that can only come from interest in people.

From Stroudsburg Joe Clark headed for a rally at Danielsville. There — as he did in Monroe County with Van D. Yetter for Assemblyman and Rep. Francis E. Walter for Congress — he urged the election of the full Democratic ticket.

Day after day, an election campaign grows to be more and more a part of a man's life once he has set his sights on a public office. There could be no doubt that the United States Senate was the prime goal in Joe Clark's life right now.

The life of a politician, on the other hand, may be long — but the days of a politician seeking election are very, very long indeed.

Along the sidelines, to the constant observer, it is often amazing that elections and campaigns make so little impression on some of those standing by.

Take Stroudsburg, for example. Saturday afternoon as Clark moved down Main St., talking with store owners and people along the street, one woman turned and said: "Who's that?"

And a man standing next to her holding a blonde-haired baby in his arm, smiled condescendingly and said: "That's Joe Clark, honey. He's running for Senator against Duff."

"Who's Duff?" the lady replied. All of which could be an indication that Joe Clark was right all along — that the race for the U.S. Senate in Pennsylvania is pretty much a 50-50 proposition and if you want to win you've got to run scared.

GETTING INSIDE SCUTTLEBUTT at Naomi Lake regatta Saturday was young (five years) Jam Tiff. Pam was so earnest about her search for information that she simply had to see what was inside that megaphone young Rickey Tiff (2) was shouting through. Our man MacLeod (always on hand at the right moment when these "once in a lifetime" shots occur) snapped the picture in mid-process. Looking on with mild degree of astonishment here is Chris Maylahn, 4. All three are from Philadelphia. Story and other pictures may be found on the sports page. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)
